

The opening home page banner and first slide to change fully.

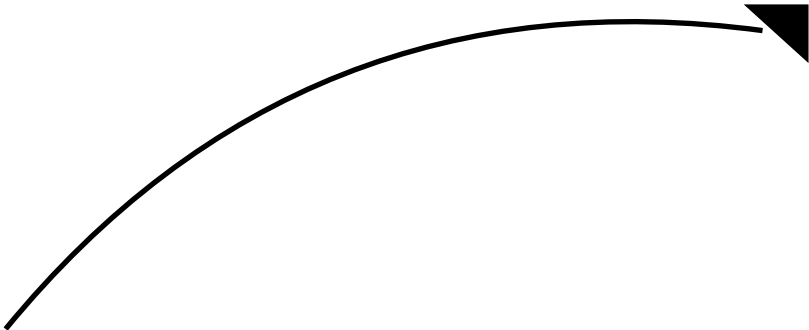

below the proposed banner we can add the content below the headline as indicated below.

The Whole Lot is an independent strategy, research and growth practice exploring how people, culture and context shape businesses and the world around them.

We work with brands, founders, institutions and emerging entrepreneurs to understand the thing underneath the thing — and decide what to do with it.

INTRODUCTION

MOST BUSINESSES
STUDY
MARKETS.
WE STUDY
PEOPLE.

Because markets are made of them.

People carrying memories, aspirations, anxieties, habits, histories, identities, contradictions and very strong opinions about things nobody expected them to care about.

The Whole Lot began as a marketing and communications practice. Then the questions got bigger. Why do people behave the way they do? Why does something work in one city and fall flat in another? What happens before a trend becomes visible? What gets lost when we study human behaviour only through dashboards?

Today, The Whole Lot sits somewhere between business strategy, cultural research, marketing, communications, entrepreneurship and human behaviour. We observe. We research. We connect things that may not initially appear connected. And then we make something useful from what we find.

MOST BUSINESSES
STUDY MARKETS.

WE STUDY
PEOPLE.

the current banner to be replaced with the above.

MOST
BUSINESSES
STUDY MARKETS.

WE STUDY
PEOPLE.

People carrying memories, aspirations, anxieties, habits, histories, identities, contradictions and very strong opinions about things nobody expected them to care about.

The Whole Lot began as a marketing and communications practice. Then the questions got bigger. Why do people behave the way they do? Why does something work in one city and fall flat in another? What happens before a trend becomes visible? What gets lost when we study human behaviour only through dashboards?

Today, The Whole Lot sits somewhere between business strategy, cultural research, marketing, communications, entrepreneurship and human behaviour. We observe. We research. We connect things that may not initially appear connected. And then we make something useful from what we find.

People carrying memories, aspirations, anxieties, habits, histories, identities, contradictions and very strong opinions about things nobody expected them to care about.

The Whole Lot began as a marketing and communications practice. Then the questions got bigger. Why do people behave the way they do? Why does something work in one city and fall flat in another? What happens before a trend becomes visible? What gets lost when we study human behaviour only through dashboards?

Today, The Whole Lot sits somewhere between business strategy, cultural research, marketing, communications, entrepreneurship and human behaviour. We observe. We research. We connect things that may not initially appear connected. And then we make something useful from what we find.

Wherever this font exists, on the website, it needs to be replaced with helvetica neu-REGULAR, Light, Thin

WHAT WE'RE CURIOUS ABOUT

We live in a world with more information than we've ever had. And somehow, understanding hasn't necessarily kept up.

WHY DO PEOPLE TRUST?

And why do they resist, abandon, repeat, inherit or reinvent?

WHAT HAPPENS BEFORE BEHAVIOUR BECOMES MEASURABLE?

Before the click, the trend, the purchase, the move, the shift.

WHY DO SOME PROBLEMS BECOME BUSINESSES?

And why do others remain invisible until somebody notices differently?

THE QUESTIONS

A SIMPLE RECURRING INTERROGATION.

WHAT is happening?	WHAT emotion may sit underneath it?	WHY might it be happening now?	NEXT what could emerge?
------------------------------	---	--	-----------------------------------

We call this WEWN. Because apparently even people suspicious of frameworks eventually create acronyms.

W WHAT	E EMOTION	W WHY NOW	N NEXT
------------------	---------------------	---------------------	------------------

